Pentecostalism in Chile,” Wilson Muñoz, a social anthropologist jointly of the late 19th century the American Methodist Church there Edit Wilson Oh these documentaries are good! May be it was all that night I spent watching them. Quite some time ago I found myself in a situation of "thinking about people" from this background (similar to that of our group's "Groupwork"-CPS, BTW). I did not have interest to start going into the deep-dark psyche of the subjects, but being a bit of a mentalist and a psychology buff I went ahead and started to play with the data I had collected. Here's the result: Hmm, could be, yes. Basically, it's about getting the "right" kind of people, in my case, I went for having kids who had missed their infertile years... On average, it takes about two years for that to happen. So as long as I don't get "too close" to them, I should be fine. So far I can't see any problems... Oh these documentaries are good! Did you go to disneyworld?...tell ya...when I see a 100 yr old couple then I know the "forever couple". I went to disneyworld then I went to Universal Studios and before the trip I looked up all the couples there were and kept a file on who I thought was the right couple...in my file there was 1500 couples. My mom told me not to go to disneyworld, but she was only kidding f678ea9f9e
